

TERM CARD – TRINITY TERM 2018

1st Week	THE ROLE OF LDCS IN CLIMATE ACTION Monday 23rd April, 7.15pm – Danson Room, Trinity College The world's least developed countries (LDCs) have contributed least to the problem of climate change, yet they are among the ones suffering the most. Join our expert panel with Lisa Benjamin, Assistant Professor in Law at The University of Bahamas, and Chukwumerije Okereke, Professor in Environment and Development at the University of Reading, to discuss the role of the countries that are often at the forefront of climate action!	3rd Week	THE CITIES OF THE FUTURE Monday 7th May, 7.15pm – Danson Room, Trinity College All over the world, increasing numbers of people move into cities. Urban hotspots can be a source of ideas and progress – but also one of dangerous inequalities. So what should today's cities be doing to prepare for the future? We will explore the problems that face cities in both developing and developed nations and discuss potential solutions with Radhika Khosla, Senior Researcher at the Smith School of Enterprise and the Environment.
2nd Week	AIR POLLUTION: SOLVING A PUBLIC HEALTH CRISIS Monday 30th April, 7.15pm – Danson Room, Trinity College How can we solve the public health crisis posed by air pollution, and what's its link to climate policy? Join us as we explore these and other questions with Jenny Bates, Air Pollution Campaigner at Friends of the Earth UK, and Mai Jarvis, Environmental Policy Team Leader at the Oxford City Council.	4th Week	PANEL: WOMEN AND CLIMATE CHANGE Monday 14th May, 7.15pm – Danson Room, Trinity College Climate change is a feminist issue. Women are disproportionately harmed by the environmental crises we face. At the same time, women across the world are on the frontlines of resistance. Judy Ling Wong OBE, ambassador for the Women's' Environmental Network and founder of the Black Environmental Network, and Lisa Schipper, researcher at the Overseas Development Institute, will draw on their experiences in the field to address the crucial link between women and climate change.
